An Explosive Affair (Ben Hood Thrillers Book 7)

Synopsis

Why would anyone want to blow up an entire Australian town? How would they get their hands on sufficient explosives to even undertake such a task? Why would ex police detective Ben Hood end up in the middle of this town at the same time as the bomber is preparing to unleash devastation? Can an outcast, 12 year old Aboriginal girl be of any assistance to Ben in finding a way to resolve an impending catastrophe? An Explosive Affair holds all the answers.

Customer Reviews

Ben once again gets his target. He saves a town in the heart of Australia from being raised to the ground because of hate and racial problems. Once again Ben saves the leading character from a fate worse than death. As usual a great read. I have read all books in this series and would be so excited if the series was to continue.

Another fine Ben Hood read. This one starts with the theft of explosivess from a mine. Loads of explosives. Enough to blow a town off the map. That town is Alice Springs. The perpetrator of the theft is an aboriginal named Paddy. He has loads of hatred for the whites and sees them as the reason for everything bad in his life and the lives of all aboriginals. Paddy has a couple of assistants neither of whom are all that bright. Detective Inspector Wallace is in charge of the police in Alice Springs and he now knows that 24 hours ago all the explosives were stolen from a mining operation. The man who should have informed him is Constable Moon. Moon knew about the theft but said nothing. He and the mine manager figured the explosives were still on site, just somewhere where they weren't supposed to be. Wallace is mad as hell and knows if these explosive have been stolen and anyone uses them it will be a blood bath. Ben Hood is in Paris with Sam, Irene and Ivy Cruz. He's been invited to dinner on the top of the Eiffel Tower. An invitation that was made months ago. He's having a good time with Sam, Irene and Ivy. Milba Berry is 21 years old. She's aboriginal and a beauty. She's been a model and is now into acting which she's quite good at. Milba has a stalker and her agent, Heather Raintree thinks Milba needs a bodyguard. A bodyguard recommended by Merinda Jerome. Ben Hood of course. So begins one damned fine read. This one has Ben, Milba, Heather, Paddy, his band of idiots, stolen explosives, a police department behind at every turn, murder, attempted murder, kidnapping and Ben Hood once again in a race to save lives. Five Stars and then some.

An Explosive Affair had the chance to be explosive, but Ben stopped that. I kind of would have liked to have had more background as to why the bad guys wanted to blow things sky high. But had that happened, we would not have seen as much of Ben. Make no mistake, I LOVE these books and am a bit sad that I can read faster than Mr Lindsay can write. I am glad to own a kindle so I can get my Hood fix anytime I want.

always fun to read about Ben Hood's latest detective case. Drew Lindsay keeps you turning the pages. He's a master of mystery.

Another good Ben Hood story! I love how when reading the book you just get so into the characters and story you can't wait to see what is going to happen next.

Love this series.

Another good Ben hooks novel. Very Good twist at end
